Kennedy Denies Business Holds Grudge Against Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Thursday he cannot believe big business would want to see an economic slump just to deal a blow at the man in the White House.

At a news conference, the chief executive was asked about a column indicating some businessmen hope to use the stock market downturn for this purpose.

"Now we have him where we want him," unidentified businessmen were reported as saying.

Kennedy raised a laugh at his news conference by saying: "I can't believe I'm where big business wants me."

Another laugh came when he said he had read the column in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. This recalled that this paper was recently added to the White House subscription list when the New York Herald Tribune was knocked off the list.

Disbelieves Theory

Turning serious, the President said he could not believe it would be a source of pleasure to any businessman to see the stock market go down, or the economy get into difficulties, just to get even with the chief executive.

Asked whether he thought he had made headway in winning confidence of businessmen, he took the position that economic problems were not a political matter.

The important thing, he said, is for everybody to cooperate in getting a satisfactory rate of growth in the economy.

The nation had a Republican in the White House in 1968 and 1969, he said, yet there were recessions in both years.

"I might be away from the scene — which might make them (businessmen) happy — but economic problems would still remain," he said.

Conference Highlights

FOREIGN AID—The President was asked whether the restrictive amendments to the Senate bill for the foreign aid bill showed a "growing disenchantment" with the foreign aid program.

Kennedy replied that there is, of course, a growing resentment that all our efforts have not produced a new world.

FAR EAST—Asked whether there should be a review of Far Eastern policies, Kennedy said such a review is going on. In the matter of Laos, he said, much thought has been given to avoiding any clash. He said he has a high regard for Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who suggested the review. Mansfield suggested attention to Burma and Cambodia, Kennedy said, and these countries were the very ones mentioned by Soviet Premier Khrushchev and himself when there were discussions of settlements similar to the one achieved in Laos.

INDIA—The President was asked about reports India is considering buying aircraft from the Soviet Union and equipment to manufacture them.

He said the matter is being discussed by this government and others.

Asked about measure to control overpopulation, Kennedy said this was a matter that each country must determine for itself.

NUCLEAR TESTS—Kennedy was told Premier Khrushchev had made a statement denouncing nuclear tests as an effort by a "certain element" to prepare for an attack on the Soviet Union.

"The United States is not, quite obviously," Kennedy said.

"The world knows the history of how this present series of tests began and our reluctance to commence them."

The President said the United States is trying to lessen tension in all the troubled areas of the world. He said he is confident that if there is good will on both sides, there can be such a lessening of tensions.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM—Kennedy was asked if he had arrived at any new formula to persuade rebellious congressional Democrats to come along with his program.

He replied he felt the Democrats in the House had done pretty well in winning passage of the increase in the debt limit sought by his administration. The House voted Thursday to raise the debt limit to $308 billion.

Kennedy noted that every Republican in the House except nine voted "against us, but we passed it because the Democrats voted with us."

REFUGEE AID—The President was asked whether the administration is considering the contribution of hospitals and other facilities for handling the refugee-swollen population of Hong Kong, as well as the food contributions which the United States has been providing.

Kennedy said he was unaware that Hong Kong authorities had suggested such additional help, but that the government would assuredly consider the proposal if they did so.

LATIN AMERICA—To a question whether he felt the Latin-American countries were making the contribution they should on the Alliance for Progress, Kennedy replied that some were, others weren't.

But he added that a number of nations in Latin America faced "staggering difficulties" and the United States shouldn't expect to find a solution overnight to the problems of its neighbors to the south.

MILITARY SPACE—Kennedy was asked whether he planned to give the military a larger role in space.

"The military already has an important role, along with the civilian space agency and I think we ought to let this relationship continue," he said.

Kennedy said he felt the United States wasn't first in space yet, but we are making progress in that direction.

TARIFFS—Even though the European Common Market has retaliated with tariff raises of its own because of the U.S. increase in tariffs on carpets and glass, Kennedy said he thinks the step taken by this country was correct. It will not be rescinded, he said. He noted the tariff increases on carpets and glass were unanimously recommended by the Tariff Commission because of serious conditions in those industries.

Emergency Powers

Asked whether he would go to Congress for emergency seizure powers if the engineers refused his request, Kennedy said he would wait to see whether the engineers would reconsider.

If they do not, he said, "we would have to consider what would be the proper course of action."

The President was asked to expand on a statement he made in an address at Yale University — that deficits are not necessarily harmful.

"The key word is necessary," he replied. He said the point he tried to make was that deficits did not always result in inflation. After the war, he said, there was inflation despite surpluses.

What the country must be concerned about, he said, is maintaining the vitality of the economy.

Formal traditional positions may not be applicable now, he said, referring to the recent experiences of Europe.

The automatic response that a deficit produces inflation, he concluded, is not necessarily true.

A reporter said many feel a Democratic effort to woo business is like the Republicans trying to win the confidence of labor unions.

Most businessmen are Republicans traditionally, Kennedy replied. But the important point, he said, is that they and all other groups recognize the necessity of the government's working out a policy that will help create economic growth.

Kennedy said he was sure the business community would be happier if a Republican sat in the White House, but noted that even when there was a Republican president there were recessions.

A reporter said there was a feeling that big business was using the stock market slump in an effort to make Kennedy come to terms. He asked if the President was aware of this.

"I'm not aware that big business wants me," Kennedy began, drawing a laugh.

"I can't believe that anyone would take such a partisan attitude," Kennedy said. "I realize that it is traditional to blame presidents for recessions. This is one of the things presidents get paid for."

TERMING a post-adjournment continuation of the meeting of the Monroe County Republican Committee last night an "outlaw meeting," Parke Unangst announced that he had been re-elected as Republican County Chairman for his second two-year term by a voice vote of the committeemen and women present.

The meeting, called for 8 o'clock, was held at Monroe County Court House, Stroudsburg.

It was a closed meeting with both the press and general public excluded. Only committeemen and committeewomen, of whom there are 70 in the county, were admitted, Unangst said.

There were enough of them present to create a great deal of noise and confusion, and to make it impossible for him to recognize any members except those near the front of the room, he added.

Nominated, Seconded

The name of Parke Unangst was placed in nomination by John Nauman and was seconded by Barbara Drake. No other name was placed in nomination; the nominations were closed, and Unangst reported that he was duly elected by a voice vote of those present.

According to the by-laws, no roll call vote is required and as far as Unangst could hear in the general confusion, none was requested.

Also elected to office were Olaf Pedersen, treasurer, and Barbara Drake, secretary.

Anything which happened after the formal adjournment of the meeting cannot be binding, Unangst said, since, according to the by-laws, the county chairman must receive written notice of any special meeting five days before it is held.

In an interview in The Daily Record office, following the "official" meeting, Unangst was asked for a preliminary statement regarding the "outlaw" meeting.

He stated that the meeting was called to order according to the by-laws regulating the committee, and that the nominations were made, seconded and closed in due form. He said, too, that "there was such a clamor in the background of the meeting, I could only recognize those in the first few rows whom I could hear."

Asked about a charge that the meeting was "railroaded," Unangst said that it was conducted according to the by-laws, and that it was an official meeting. The vote made at the meeting was an aye and nay vote, which was accepted as the voice of the committeemen present.

On the question of whether the dual meeting would have a detrimental effect on party cooperation, Unangst said: "Definitely. It's a shame it happened, but the meeting was properly announced according to the by-laws, and I was elected in a properly conducted meeting. The mavericks at the outlaw meeting did not voice their vote at the official meeting."

Regarding the exclusion of the press at the meeting, Unangst said that the meeting was barred to everyone except committee members, and that it was not an individual exclusion of any one faction or interest. He admitted that some arrangement should have been made for an announcement to the press following the selection of a chairman, but that none was made.

Questioned as to the legality or suitability of the Court House for a closed partisan meeting, since it is a public place, Unangst said he was not prepared to answer, since he was not aware of all of the ramifications of the law regarding such a matter.

Repeating that the official meeting of the Republican County Committee was limited to official members of the committee, Unangst pointed out that even Woodrow Horn, Republican candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives, was denied admission along with Gerald Snyder, candidate for the State Assembly, and reporters, since none of them were committee members.

Bangor Bank President Threatened In Phone Call

BANGOR—State and local police last night were investigating a threatening telephone call received by J. Hayden Jones, president of the Merchants National Bank of Bangor.

According to police, the local bank official received the last call at the bank at approximately 12:20 p.m. Tuesday. The caller was tentatively identified as a woman who asked to speak to Jones.

When queried as to which Jones, she said she wanted to speak to the president. Heber Jones is assistant cashier of the bank.

The woman first apologized to Jones for disturbing him, police said, then said she was being forced to make the call by two men who were holding a gun at her back.

Instructed To Put Cash

She then instructed Jones to put all the bank's $1, $5, $10 and $20 bills in a paper bag and to leave the bag in an old building behind the G. C. Murphy Store on Broadway.

Police said she told Jones that if the demand was ignored something might happen to him or his family.

Three FBI agents and four state police joined local police in the investigation. A bag was placed in the designated spot and observed by police, but no one appeared to pick it up.

Police also set up a guard at Jones' home, on the road between Bangor and Flocksville. Nothing suspicious developed there, either.

Police said one woman suspect was questioned, but no information was secured from her.

Recriminations Close Disarmament Session

GENEVA (AP)—The 17-nation disarmament conference wound up three months of deadlocked debate Thursday in a welter of charges and countercharges.

Delegates saw little prospect for agreement when the meeting resumes after a month-long summer recess.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin set the harsh tone of recrimination in a speech accusing United States statesmen of statements advocating preventive atomic war against the Soviet Union while the talks continued. He also accused the United States of refusing to agree on a declaration condemning war propaganda.

Denying any American statesman ever advocated atomic war, U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean in turn accused Zorin of revoking his agreement to the joint American-Soviet declaration on war propaganda on May 29, on Moscow's orders, after approving it on May 25.

He charged Zorin attempted to get the conference secretariat to eliminate from the record all the remarks he had previously made in expressing his government's assent to the war propaganda document.

Western sources said Zorin did not defend himself against this charge.

British Minister of State Joseph B. Godber told newsmen Zorin's talk about the propaganda document "was a monstrous thing. It deeply shocked the delegations."

Monroe GOP Goes Separate Ways Committee Meeting Blows Up In Factions

Unangst Claims Chairmanship

Mavericks Pick H. L. Cleveland

NEW CHAIRMAN?—Hanford L. Cleveland, former Monroe County representative in the General Assembly, leaves Courtroom No. 1 in Monroe County Court-house during second — or continued — meeting at which he was elected county chairman. Parke W. Unangst also claims the post.

HANFORD L. Cleveland, former Monroe County representative to the General Assembly, last night was elected county Republican chairman by a majority of the county's committeemen and committeewomen, at a "maverick" meeting.

According to spokesmen, Parke W. Unangst, party chairman until last night, pushed through a hastily-offered motion and second to close the nominations after he had been nominated initially for re-election at an earlier meeting. Despite protests from some committeemen, Unangst ruled that he had been duly elected and promptly adjourned the meeting, they said.

Approximately 40 of the 70-member board committeemen and women remained after Unangst stalked from the meeting. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Mary Fontanella, vice chairman of the county committee, Cleveland was elected on a roll-call vote of 38-2.

Unangst polled the other two votes. Twenty-nine of the county's 70 committeemen and women were absent during the roll call.

Also elected were Clyde Learn of Stroud Township as secretary. He received 36 votes to one for Barbara Drake, named secretary in the election conducted by Unangst. There were two abstentions.

In third roll call vote, Donald Dimmick was elected treasurer of the committee by a 36-5 vote over Atty. Elmer D. Christine of East Stroudsburg.

The decision as to which meeting was legal may be decided in the county courts.

Petition Circulated

Atty. Edwin Krawitz of Stroudsburg acted as secretary during the three ballots.

On the basis of legal advice, a petition was circulated among the committeemen and women remaining after the first meeting, waiving the five-day notice required by law for such a session.

It was pointed out that this validated the second meeting and, since a majority of the committeemen and women were present, the election was also validated.

The move was an allegedly legal one to avoid any possibility of Unangst or his supporters claiming that the first meeting was the only legitimate one.

Unangst, who claimed prior to the meeting, that he was unopposed for the chairmanship, supported Clifford Heller in the May 15 primary election as the GOP candidate for representative in the General Assembly.

Gerald A. Snyder, running without the endorsement of the county committee, won the election and will face Van D. Yetter, Jr., the Democratic incumbent, in the November general election.

Snyder, shortly before the primary, charged Unangst with criminal libel. The case was bound over to court by Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg Justice of the peace, after a hearing at which there was conflicting testimony as to the authorship and circulation of the letter.

What obviously irked many of those attending last night's meeting was the speed with which Unangst conducted the proceedings.

Parliamentary procedure calls for a roll call vote on any nomination for any office. Several of the persons who remained for the second meeting — or continued meeting as it was sometimes called — mentioned the fact that had there been a roll call vote at the Unangst-run session, they would have had no quarrel with its results.

In accepting the election, Cleveland told the group:

"I certainly appreciate your loyal support. I'm sorry about what happened tonight, but I'll do my best with your cooperation."

Earlier in the meeting, Cleveland had told the committeemen and women:

"It's not good for me to accept it (the chairmanship) under these conditions."

Cleveland, at that time, urged a cooling off period of several days and another meeting.

It was pointed out that under state law the election had to be held prior to midnight yesterday.

Ponds Tell Lots Of Tales In Many Different Ways

By PAT WILLIAMS
Daily Record Reporter

WALDEN Pond caused quite a splash in literary circles when Henry David Thoreau published his observations.

No matter what angle or what season is chosen by the viewer, a pond gives a large slice of fascinating material.

Put a pond down in the middle of a gentle hollow and sit back fast because developments don't hesitate to happen. The pond on Seese Hill Rd., Canadensis, is one of those "happening ponds".

Originally, the spot was dug out to aid in fire protection for homeowners. Since then, the fire-protection has become a secondary or even tertiary consideration. By counting, it would most assuredly be much further down the list of reasons.

But, reason or excuse, at least once during the summer and when the children are lucky, the Barrett Township Firemen bring their shiny equipment, crackling two-way radio and jovial chatter up Seese Hill and turn down the lane to park by the pond to send geysers of water into the air in a great arc which splashes enchantingly for the children.

Weather Forecaster
As the old saying goes, a pond is an excellent weather forecaster: if it's splashing, it's raining out; if it's rippled, the wind is blowing; if there's ice on it, it's cold. There are a number of other observations available to those who study the ever-changing face of any pond. The phenomenon of ground fog which is scattered in ribbons by the rising sun draws much speculation. And the appearance of steam when water and air temperature are just right can fascinate early risers.

Allow a pond to just lie around any old place and every child with means of locomotion will eventually arrive to throw a rock into it, wade into it or fall into it. Dogs find it a marvelous place to get a drink after a romp and there are several cats who think the Seese Hill pond is a dandy place to fish. Overzealous cats have been known to head for home at high speed after being dosed.

Close to the surface of the pond, tiny fish called colloquially, "minnies" or minnows, rush thither and yon at the sight of a shadow on the bottom. They scatter like leaves in a wind when the children wade.

Hazen Files Fish Kill Complaints

JAMES F. Hazen, Monroe County fish warden, said yesterday he has filed with the Pennsylvania Fish Commission information and signed complaints concerning a large fish kill in the Delaware River adjacent to Monroe and Northampton Counties.

Hazen said he has traced the pollution to a Monroe County plant. He declined to name the company pending action by the fish commission.

A fisherman discovered the kill May 27 near where the Brodheads Creek empties into the river.

An investigation by Hazen, Miles Witt, Northampton County fish warden, and John Burns, Warren County fish and game warden, revealed about 8,000 dead fish along a 28-mile stretch of the river on the Pennsylvania side.

Burns and Witt have confirmed that dead fish were also found on the New Jersey side. An estimate of how many has not been released.

Hazen previously said an analysis of the water showed the creek and river had been polluted by chemicals.

Seven Deeds Filed At Court House

SEVEN deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeanette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder:

Paul and Alice Schultz, Stroudsburg, RD 2, to John E. and Irene A. Hartenstein, same address, property in Hamilton Township; Arthur F. and Dolores R. Ream, Pocono Manor, to Harold H. and Amy Strohhecker, Lynbrook, Long Island, N. Y., property in Pocono Township.

N. J., 10 properties in Coolbaugh Township; Pocono Lakeshore, Inc., to Charles and Christine Todor, Fanwood, N. J., property in Monroe Lake Shores; Pocono Lakeshore, Inc. to Anthony and Mary Marvosa, Fanwood, N. J., property in Monroe Lake Shores.

Louis J. and Joyce B. Manzie, Stroudsburg, to Mary H. Pickard, Pocono Summit Lakes, Inc., to Ciro and Ruth Palumbo, Newark, East Stroudsburg, property in East Stroudsburg; R. C. Cramer Lumber Co., East Stroudsburg, to Louis J. and Joyce B. Manzie, Stroudsburg, two properties in East Stroudsburg.

When robins cock their heads searching for worms in the ground, they are looking — not listening. Lacking bifocal vision, the birds can see best when a single eye is pointed down.

Delaware River Basin Aides Named

THE Executive Director of the Delaware River Basin Commission yesterday announced the appointments of Herbert A. Howlett, of California, as Chief Planning Officer, effective on July 15, and Arthur E. Peck, of New Jersey, as Chief Administrative Officer, effective on July 1.

Howlett, now the Southern District Engineer for the California Department of Water Resources, is 44 and has been with the California agency for the last twenty-five years.

His assignment with that Department have ranged from studies of ground water resources and barrier dams through development of plans and policies for the current $2 billion California water program. As District Engineer, Howlett has 250 employees under his supervision.

Peck, now Supervisor of Finance and Statistics for the New Jersey State Department of Education, is 46 and has been employed by the New Jersey Education Department for the past 14 years.

For more than 12 years he had responsibilities in the Department of Education involving veterans training under provisions of the World War II and Korean Conflict GI Bills.

He is currently responsible for Federal funds allocated to New Jersey under the Smith-Hughes and George-Barden programs of vocational education.

Tents For Algeria

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—The International Red Cross has distributed 3,000 tents to Algerian refugees returning to their war-torn homeland.

The children have company in the pond from time to time.

A family of muskrats had burrowed into the shore line about a year ago, leaving tunnels full of water for the unwary stroller to step into to his ankles. The dogs were frustrated in their efforts to catch the animals. One sunny afternoon, several children engaged in the pastime of tossing rocks and skipping stones on the surface were taken back to see a "stick" making time for the opposite shore. The snake became the target for the rocks and stones.

Attraction or Drawback
The greatest attraction or drawback, according to the point of view, to this particular pond is the announcement of spring which is "sung" by dozens of "peepers" at the water's edge in early spring dusk. They carol the news with an assurance that gives everyone a lift.

Later in the season, the larger frogs take over, advertising their own "sing-along" show with an ear for rhythm that if broken will wake a dozing sleeper to see "what happened". The biggest green frogs, with bright orange throats pouted out full of air, proclaim, "Gr-r-r-umph". From the opposite side of the pond, three notes higher but still in the bass clef, comes the answering, "Grrr-r-umph". Somewhere in the exchange, a junior member of the group gives out with a sound that suspiciously resembles a banjo string which either needs tuning or has just snapped.

If the sounds are ever recorded, they will be right in line for the title, "Spring Dusk Serenade". But, only people who are home-sick for a pond would really enjoy it. And even then, it wouldn't be of much use without the ever-changing panorama which is presented to those who own the view of a pond.

Dr. Wimer's Paper Is Published

DR. KURT Wimer's paper entitled "Woodrow Wilson and a Third Nomination" is being published in the current issue of Pennsylvania History, the periodical of the Pennsylvania Historical Association.

According to Wimer, Woodrow Wilson's readiness to stand for a third term should be considered a sacrifice the President was ready to make rather than the realization of an ambition. The article is Wimer's second in Pennsylvania History within the past year, the previous one having appeared in the July 1961 issue.

Kurt Wimer is professor of Political Science at the East Stroudsburg State College. As the recipient of a Rockefeller grant he had been placed on research leave during 1961-62 by President LeRoy J. Koehler.

Dr. Wimer has written many articles on Woodrow Wilson and is currently preparing a book on "Wilson and the Treaty Deed."

Where's The Surplus?

Remember, not so long ago, when a small federal budget surplus, in the half-billion dollar range, was officially forecast for the coming fiscal year?

Well, that hope has gone a-glimmering. There will be a deficit. Responsible quarters put it at a minimum of $5 billion. Some think it may reach twice that figure.

Here's what Sylvia Porter, the respected financial writer, has to say: "Whatever the precise deficit figure when the books are closed on the 1963 fiscal year, the pivotal point is that the budget is fast sinking into the red. . . . This coming year's deficit will mark the third in three fiscal years of the Kennedy administration, the 11th in the past 17 years of both Democratic and Republican Administrations, the 27th in the past 33 years of our history. . . .

"It will reflect primarily the fact that good as our economy's performance is in 1962, it simply isn't good enough to produce the corporation and individual income taxes to cover the government's scheduled spending. . . ."

Overestimates of tax income and underestimates of spending seem to have become a habit-forming vice within the government. And what are the potentials of these huge, continued deficits? One, of course, is a new wave of inflation, as the government pumps red-ink money into the economy, without a compensating increase in the supply or demand for goods and services. Another is a further weakening of the dollar in the world markets. Another is a further decline in our gold reserve.

Let all this go on long enough, and there's just one end—the national bankruptcy, or something approaching it, that our Soviet enemies anticipate and eagerly await. And remember, as the value of money declines the much vaunted "security" of the welfare state becomes increasingly illusory.

Advice For The Graduates

This is the season when young men and women are taking their places in that familiar and wonderful ceremony—the commencement.

They are being honored with the familiar and wonderful oratory, too, from "the dim and distant past." Speaker after speaker spouts the "illusions and platitudes," the "cliches" the "truisms and stereotypes" and "the myth—persistent, persuasive and unrealistic."

(We found all the quoted words and phrases in the above paragraph in just one highly publicized commencement address of the current week.)

But this is also the season of the commencement speaker extraordinary, who makes a sharp break with the familiar speaker.

"My advice to young people going into the world: 'Don't Go!'"

That was commencement speaker and honorary degree recipient Bob Hope at Georgetown University.

'Some Of My Best Friends...'

Every once in a while, somebody gets out a book about prejudiced persons who set up protective barriers against those whom they dislike. It is not so much that a man really dislikes others because if he did, he would decline to trade with them or have any form of human relations with them.

For instance, if I really and truly hated a person, for whatever reason, I would not want to make a profit out of him; if I were a banker, I would not charge him any interest; if I were a retailer, I would not sell him any goods although I might give him some for nothing to show how noble I am and what contempt I have for him.

I have never been able to dislike anyone that much. Having lived in China and Japan where the white man is regarded as inferior, I know how it feels. Japanese waitresses, for instance, find that Americans smell like goats—or, at any rate, it was so before General MacArthur altered the mores of the Japanese people.

I have never known anybody odors to be so repulsive although I sometimes find perfumes, from my friends, Benjamin R. Epstein and Arnold Forster, have written a book entitled,

"Some Of My Best Friends. . . ." It is a book about a curious American problem. We have no natural aristocracy in this country. Such an aristocracy comes into existence by birth and anointment. For instance, the houses of Hapsburg, Romanov, Windsor represent a natural aristocracy. We have no such houses; not even the Cabots or the Hookers or the Lees represent such a lineage as the Obolenskys or the Cecils, if that matters.

That is very tough on the status seekers who need to prove that they are better than most, not through some accomplishment such as Einstein or Fritz Kreisler or Bernard Gimbel has to offer the best they can show is a grandfather who made some money honestly or dishonestly, by hard work or by a gimmick.

Well, the fellow knows how to wear his clothes he is gentle-spoken except under the influence, as it is said. And his name appears in the Blue Book, which lists unlisted telephone numbers and therefore has some value.

So the status seekers keep some people out of things that they like to go to, as, for instance, a specific hotel or a club. I cannot get excited over that because I belong to a comfortable club and need not go to an uncomfortable one.

As for hotels and resorts, I always feel that any manager should be free to decide how he wants to make his money and if he does not like mine, that is all right with me. Thus far, I have lived many years and have had no trouble with hotel managers. Maybe I never go to the right hotels.

However, when there is a housing shortage and a renting agent tells a new tenant to fill out a questionnaire asking what clubs the prospect belongs to, what schools or colleges he has graduated from, etc., etc., it is obvious that he is attempting to set up a road block. This is a usual practice among managers of this gimmick called the cooperative.

The landlord or agent wants to set up a pattern of the kind of persons he desires in his building, but dares not be truthful about it. For instance, were he to say that he did not want Jews, Negroes, Italians, Greeks, Puerto Ricans, but that he insisted upon having only WASPs, which is a New York colloquialism for white, Anglo-Saxon Protestants, he might get into a jam with the law. Some might even set up a boycott which would say in effect, no equality—no profits.

I, for instance, believe in the rights of private property. I would never sign an agreement limiting my rights to dispose of my property as I saw fit unless I received direct compensation for the restriction. Even then, I might not sign such an agreement, because my widow, when the time comes, might have to sell to the highest bidder to have the money to bury me.

The Epstein-Forster book makes good reading for the status seekers who believe that they amount to something just because their grandfathers amounted to something. Life does not work that way.

The Pennsylvania Story

Coffee And The Campaign

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook: HAIL TO THE COFFEE BEAN! — The present gubernatorial campaign in Pennsylvania — if little else — certainly is bringing the once modestly lowly coffee bean into its own (hail to the bean — 43 in every cup, etc.).

We couldn't help but notice the point as we glanced over the agendas this week of Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Richardson Dilworth and GOP aspirant William W. Scranton. For example, here's one day's five-hour schedule for Dick Dilworth:

10 a.m. - coffee hour; 11 a.m. - coffee hour; 12:15 p.m. - luncheon (unquestionably with coffee); 2 p.m. - coffee hour; and (alas) 3 p.m. - coffee hour.

After guzzling all that coffee brother Dilworth must certainly was in shape for almost anything!

His Republican counterpart hasn't yet become quite so bean happy. . . . The same day Bill Scranton's schedule called for a "kaffee klatch" at 5 p.m. and another "kaffee klatch" at 6:30 p.m.

This coffee thing has become quite the campaign tool in recent years, with the current fray pointing up the fact quite (no pun intended) strongly. . . . The "koffee klatch" was used quite frequently during the past primary campaign incidentally to defeat GOP gubernatorial aspirant J. Collins McSparran. . . . (Apparently however his beans weren't quite as potent as Mr. Scranton's!)

It should be noted perhaps that Democrats call their sipping sessions "coffee hour" while Republicans use the term "kaffee klatch". . . . All that is needed now is for some bright and aspiring candidate to come up with a "tea clutch".

CODDLE THAT LICENSE PLATE — In recent months there's been much chit-chat in the public prints over whether Pennsylvania's already five-year-old automobile license plates are to be extended for one, two, three, four or five years more.

A check with the Department of Revenue this week indicates that it will be a one-year extension — with further extensions possible as each year passes and the wear and tear on the plates becomes more evident. How well have the plates held up? . . . "Very well," commented a department spokesman when queried. "We've been surprised — and gratified."

The present "permanent" plate was adopted five years ago as a hoped-for money saving gimmick. . . . Previously the plates were issued every year in Pennsylvania's penal institutions, they rusted and generally deteriorated in about a year's time. . . . The current plates are made of rustproof aluminum and in many instances are just about as good as the day they were issued. Financially, it saves Pennsylvania's taxpayers about $1,000,000 a year.

NEW STATE POLICE BLOOD — The 94 new State Police Troopers graduated this week from the State Police Training Academy at nearby Hershey are the first Troopers appointed under the increased State Police complement authorized by the 1961 Legislature. . . . A second brood of 100 scheduled to go through the rugged academy schedule in the fall will bring PSP to new full strength of 2100 men, plus the 185 assigned to Pennsylvania Turnpike patrol duty.

Interestingly perhaps, State Police experience shows that of the present graduating class, about ten percent won't finish their first two-year enlistment. . . . Are applicants hard to find? . . . In the case of the class just graduated, more than 400 applications were filed! . . . Screening processes (physicals, character check-outs, etc.) winnowed this down to about 185 finally eligible to take the civil service exam. . . . The 94 new Troopers and "alternates" were derived from the remainder!

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

Mooney is a small man with plenty of responsibilities. You won't find his name listed in Who's Who. But it well could be because the man performs a service that solves many of the trials and tribulations of the weary traveler.

Who is Mooney? Well he's the little fellow who glides behind a six-foot-wide ticket agency counter at the American House — answering questions, calling buses, hailing cabs, selling tickets, directing unfamiliar transients, and passing the time of day.

He's the type of an individual you can say does a big job in a small town. There's little reward for his wealth of information unless you call constant contact with a perpetually gripping public compensation.

But he takes all of it in stride. That is between monitor calls from Greyhound and Martz bus drivers, phone rings from "How do I get to Waukegan, Ill.?" callers, and counter besiegers all yelling "give me a ticket to Scranton, New York, Rochester and Newark," at the same time.

Boyd Weiss's right-hand man takes most everything matter-of-factly. Once in awhile when an irate waiter-for-a-bus can't understand why the vehicle hasn't reached Stroudsburg, Mooney might blow his top.

His firm reply is frank and to the point. It usually goes like this:

"What did you say, madam? (This is used in case the woman wishes to draw back into her shell.)

If she continues to doubt, he'll counter with a calm, "I do not operate the bus lady. Possibly they had some motor trouble that caused the delay."

If the now frantic worrier persists, Mooney shrugs his shoulders, offers a sly smile and says, "What did you say, madam?"

It goes like this day and night and night and day. Mooney has a definite place in the roles of the unsung heroes. But like many others in his chosen field his deeds are not recorded.

Maybe the next time you see a Mooney who is surrounded by scores of requests, ringing phones, monitoring buses, questioning cabbies who will back away and wait a minute. Just 80 seconds so the world may leave the shoulders of the men and women who direct more traffic than a Times Square cop.

"What did you say, Madam?"

Intoned George Raft: "I've been lucky. To be raised as a poor kid without any real education and have the kind of life I've had, that's luck all right and I have no regrets. I'd like it all over again. Only this time doubled."

Top-Level Dispute Over A-Weapons Control

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, June 15: — A sharp nuclear policy dispute has developed within the Kennedy Administration over how far to go in furnishing U. S. ground forces with tactical atomic weapons.

A powerful group of State and Defense Department officials, headed by Dr. Walt Rostow, chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Council, are urging the President to tighten his control over these weapons by keeping their nuclear warheads in the U. S. except in case of war.

They take the position that these tactical A-weapons, because of their growing destructive power, would provoke a general nuclear war if used in limited hostilities with the Sino-Soviet bloc.

To bar this possibility of nuclear escalation, they want these A-weapons kept out of the hands of U. S. military commanders overseas. Eventually, the Rostow group would like to see the U. S. nuclear arsenal limited to only the larger strategic nuclear weapons.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, headed by General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, are vigorously opposing placing these new restrictions on the military services' possession of these tactical A-weapons.

These military advisers of the President are backing the position of the Army, Navy and Air Force that tactical weapons are merely more powerful than conventional arms and should be supplied to all U. S. combat forces that can effectively use them.

The Army triggered this nuclear debate last month by arming its front line troops in Europe with the Davy Crockett, the bazooka-like weapon capable of firing both conventional and nuclear shells.

The Davy Crockett, designed for use by from two to five soldiers, is being issued to combat-ready armored units of the U. S. Seventh Army. These highly-trained combat units now patrol the nearly 500 miles of border along Communist-held sections of Europe, including East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Already, the Army has a limited number of tactical nuclear warheads in Europe for its missiles, but none near the front line. The nuclear warheads, which were stockpiled in Europe under the Eisenhower administration, are for use in the Redstone, Honest John and Corporal missiles, and the Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft missile.

TAKING NO CHANCES — The Army is now seeking authority to move nuclear shells for the Davy Crockett from the U. S. to front-line areas in Europe to have these tactical atomic warheads ready for instant firing in case of an East-West conflict.

This explosive request, sparked by the Berlin crisis, is now at the White House awaiting presidential action. Its transmission to the President caused the Rostow group to rush a policy paper to the White House barring the shipment.

In addition to this limiting action, the Rostow group's policy paper recommends that the President "minimize the risk of future limited conflicts escalating into general nuclear war by barring the stockpiling of additional tactical nuclear weapons overseas."

Under present law, no nuclear weapon can be fired without permission from the President or a person designated by him. The law places no restriction on where the weapons are to be stockpiled.

The President is also being urged to explore the possibility of eliminating all tactical A-weapons from this country's nuclear arsenal. This drastic recommendation is put forward by the Rostow group as a "positive step to lessen the chance of 'accidental' nuclear war." They suggest the proposal be incorporated into the U. S. disarmament plan now being considered at Geneva.

The Rostow group also favors making available to the Russians a list of steps the U. S. has taken to prevent U. S. forces from causing an "accidental" nuclear war.

The Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy is preparing to step into the middle of the dispute.

Senator Henry Jackson, D-Wash., a ranking committee member, has asked Defense, State, and Atomic Energy officials to brief the committee on this administration's policy in the use, development, and handling of these tactical weapons.

Members of the Joint Chiefs will be invited to testify in private session.

Note: President Kennedy ruled out the shipment of tactical atomic weapons to U. S. forces stationed in Thailand.

SOCIAL WHIRL — The First Lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, are moving closer to the White House. Having sold their large Virginia estate, Merrywood, on the Potomac Palisades, they have bought a four-story red-brick mansion for $180,000 in historic Georgetown — only a few blocks from where the President and his wife lived when he was a Senator. The Auchincloss' new home was erected in 1874 by the late Dr. Armistead Peter, grandson of the husband of George Washington's stepdaughter Nelli Custis. . . . This year's birthday party for Queen Elizabeth, given annually by the British Ambassador, was perfect in every respect. The weather was ideal, one of Washington's rare bright, crisp and sparkling days. The traditional giant strawberries and thick whipped cream were vintage, and just about everybody who was anybody showed up. It was, outstandingly the most successful Queen's birthday celebration in years.

Bipartisanship has made its way into the social arena. To celebrate the 35th anniversary of the Capitol Radio Engineering Institute, its founder, Eugene Rietzke, gave a dinner party in honor of the Senate's two floor leaders — Senators Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Everett Dirksen, R-Ill. Also on hand was Vice President Lyndon Johnson, who was so besieged by admirers that he was kept rooted to one spot during most of his stay. . . .

Taped native music and native delicacies featured the Malayan embassy's garden party for the King's birthday. Both the music and food were exotic, but everyone seemed to enjoy them. . . .

Mrs. Robert McNamara, wife of the bustling Defense Secretary, displayed an unknown talent at a dinner-dance by Deputy Defense Secretary and Mrs. Roswell Gilpatric. Mrs. McNamara danced a solo hula. While she didn't wear a hula skirt, her performance was quite professional and was exuberantly applauded. . . . Turkish Ambassador Usakligi, who is being shifted to Paris, gave a farewell party with a difference. Instead of the usual solemn and formal affair, his farewell was lively and gay, with a dance orchestra, much jesting and singing. . . . This year's annual ball of Washington's Opera Society took place in an unusual setting — the beautiful new embassy of Iran. Starting at 10:30, some 400 members and guests dined and danced until the early hours to the music of a New York orchestra. Champagne flowed freely and a rollicking time was had by all. . . . Mrs. Gwen Calfren, irrepressible "spicy queen," appeared at a reception attired in a deep rose and pink watered silk draped by Balmian, with a matching coat. To startled guests, the ambrosious hostess beamingly explained she was going to several other parties and wouldn't have time to rush home to change.

Chips On A Shoulder

The front pages: "JFK warns critics to get in step and unite." Every President desires unity, but no Chief Executive worth his salt would demand blind support. . . . Complete unanimity of opinion is not harmony — it is tyranny. The freedom of the Loyal Opposition is what gives liberty its essential value. I don't want to be one of the Cast; I want to be the Critic.

Item: "Politics make strange bedfellows." That's why lotza Americans don't sleep good lately.

From the paypirt: "Scandals rock Administration." Yes, ain't it a shame the way the Big Democrats are embarrassing the Little Democrats?

Intoned George Raft: "I've been lucky. To be raised as a poor kid without any real education and have the kind of life I've had, that's luck all right and I have no regrets. I'd like it all over again. Only this time doubled."

George George Raft Raft.

Radio-tv historian Jack O'Brian's skew: "Stan Frankel, FCC boss Newton Minow's brother-in-law, is paid $15,000 every two weeks to turn out Adlai Stevenson's ABC-TV show; no sponsor, either; that's relatively."

This Damnistration is wonderful for certain brothers and brothers-in-law. Meanwhile taxpayers are hollering "uncle!"

"AP: Alfred Krupp, once a convicted war criminal but now perhaps the world's richest man, is within grasp of final victory in a long struggle to save his great industrial empire."

That sickening story appeared on the anniversary of D-Day. Could anything be more bitterly ironic?

Penn State Educator Talks At Bangor Commencement

BANGOR — Annual commencement exercises were held last night in Bangor Area Joint Senior High School auditorium. Guest speaker was Dr. Don McGarey, professor of education, Pennsylvania State University. His topic was "Citizenship in the Fourth Dimension."

Roger Bét and Paulette Martin played organ medleys prior to Kathleen Reimer's playing of Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" as the procession.

Barry Sleep, president of the senior class gave the invocation.

Rev. Dennis Speaks At Exercises

BANGOR — Rev. William E. Dennis, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, gave the haccal-aureate address for students of Bangor Area Joint High School.

Taking his text from the Acts of the Apostles in which St. Peter quotes the prophet Joel, Rev. Dennis told the class of 1962 that they, like the people in Peter's day, were a long-awaited, most privileged of all generations, living in special days such as were never shared by their fathers.

He said, in part: "Sometimes we are forgetful. All of the knowledge of centuries of the universe may be at our disposal now — but can you make one leaf for one tree? God seems to be trying so hard to give His blessing to us. To the faithful children of Israel. He gave the covenant — if only they would remember. Even to fulfill it, an only Son to die on a Cross to draw men's love to Him—and we keep forgetting . . ."

"I hope that you will not be forgetting or rejecting any of the heritage of faith that has been yours for the taking. Please do not turn your back upon the faith of your fathers. It will be the only hope that remains in a world whose glories are all built with cardboard false fronts."

Referring again to his text, Rev. Dennis said: "A cold 'what's the use' attitude took over — much as it did to those frustrated young people down in Daytona, Fla., who said they were frightened and went there just to let loose. What hope was there any longer for those biblical people? They didn't even live to see a spanking new school in which to be graduated! Even that fellow who some had hoped would be the promised Messiah, why he wound up dying upon a cross, a prisoner. So they were hopeless! And many people turned their backs — even in the midst of their worst disasters turned against what their fathers had taught them."

"But," said the speaker, "for the faithful, God's Holy Spirit was poured out upon them . . . What this means, to be a spirit-filled people, is that there is no purpose-less existence. It is walking with the knowledge of these words of the Lord, 'Lo, I am with you always' . . . There is a difference when we let the Holy Spirit be the leader of our lives."

In conclusion he said, "There is a lot of danger, pain, grief, disappointment in the days ahead for you. But there are wonders to behold such as have never yet been thought of that God will permit you to see in your time."

"Remember the ancient faith of your father—God is equipped for these days. He will equip you to be spirit-filled people for your ascent, that those days ahead will become opportunities unlimited—if you will make those days one in which the Holy Spirit frees you from the prison of the world and leads you! God has sealed His promise for it to you!"

Lucinda Lohman accompanied the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Donald B. Keat, superintendent of schools, presented awards.

Carole Albert received the student council all around senior award. James Arnts was awarded the Bausch and Lomb science medal. The certificate of merit from the National Merit Scholarship Corp. was awarded to Leonard Carrescia.

Barbara Adams, college preparatory valedictorian, received a scholarship from Albright College and the student council scholarship. Margaret Hamm, college preparatory salutatorian, received a scholarship from Ursinus College.

Carolyn Creighton received the alumni memorial scholarship from Pennsylvania State University and the state senatorial scholarship to that college from Sen. Fred B. Rooney.

Judith Share received a scholarship from Moravian College. The "Albert Foulkes Scholarship Grant" and the state senatorial scholarship through Sen. Rooney was awarded Craig Miller.

Connie Labar and Patricia DeMaria, both business education students, were valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively.

Subject awards, chosen by senior subject teachers, went to Stanley Koheler, agriculture; Carolyn Creighton, English; Judith Share, French; James Pollicelli, German; Mary Ann Kovacs, home economics; Vernon Handlong, industrial arts; Margaret Hamm, mathematics; Connie Labar, office practice; James Arnts, science; Judith Share, social studies; and Patricia DeMaria, stenography.

TV Boy, 12, To Appear With Conried

WHEN HANS Conried makes his Pocono Playhouse debut next Monday night, June 18, he will have included in his cast young Richard Thomas. Richard has been seen by millions of TV viewers during the past year starring with Jack Lescault in the NBC nation wide series, "One, Two, Three-Go."

The program has taken young Dick to England to visit an ancient castle, to the top of a gnatery at Cape Canaveral to take a close look at a Mercury rocket and viewers have also enjoyed his hiking trip with Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court, among other fascinating adventures.

Although only 12 years of age, Richard has been on the stage since six when he appeared in the musical "Damn Yankee" in a summer theater.

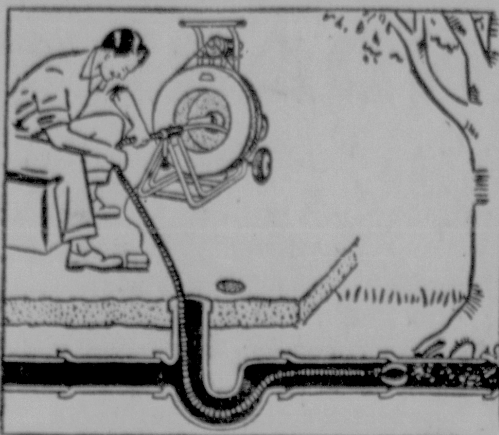

His first Broadway appearance was in the role of John Roosevelt in "Sunrise at Campobello," starring Ralph Bellamy.

Lake Kittikittatooloo and its twin, Lake Koolkootinnie, are located in an arid region in South Australia. They seldom hold water and are known mainly because of their euphonious aboriginal names.

The House Of The Week

Bonus Attic Solves The Bi-Level Problem

By JULES LOH

BI-LEVEL construction, architecture's latest advance in home design, appears finally to have come of age in this attractive model.

It was picked as today's House of the Week because it solves, better than any plan we've seen so far, the two most vexing problems associated with the new design technique:

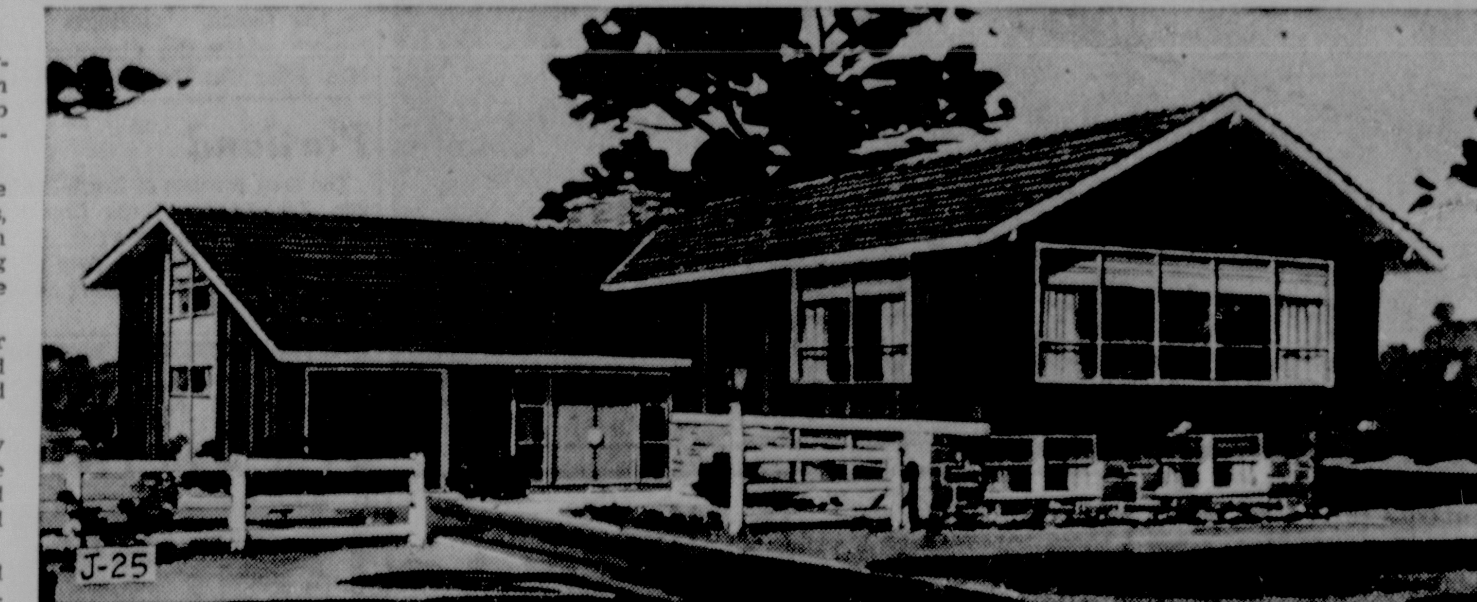

1. How to make the foyer serve its proper function instead of becoming a no-man's-land between the two levels.
2. How to provide for family expansion other than on the lower level, which rightly should contain only recreation and service facilities.

Thus architect Samuel Paul has produced a house with bi-level advantages—the man one being a greater ratio of liveable space to overall volume—without sacrificing any of the conveniences of more standard construction. It is design J-25 in the series.

The basic house consists of a well ordered two-bedroom ranch plan on the raised first floor, in an area of less than 1,100 square feet. Beneath, in what customarily would be the basement, are four additional rooms made entirely liveable by virtue of being raised out of the ground.

One of the rooms is a dramatic 20 foot eight inch by 13 foot six inch recreation room, a portion of which has a ceiling one and one half stories high. Another is a full-sized guest room with its own private bath, well isolated from the family sleeping quarters. It absolutely necessary, of course, it could serve as a third bedroom.

But architect Paul has provided for additional bedrooms in a far more logical way. Simply by putting a high-pitched roof on the attached garage he has created 377 square feet of bonus space —

PROBLEM SOLVER — This attractive home provides the answer to those who require expansion room but like the new and economical bi-level construction. A high-pitched garage roof, creating space enough space for two fine bedrooms which could be added whenever family needs require them.

The foyer of this house, which has a flagstone floor and a domed ceiling accented by an incandescent lighting cove, overlooks the recreation room and consequently has none of the closed-in feeling usually found in mid-level foyers. Moreover, it contains a convenient entry from the garage as well as the elegant double-door main entrance.

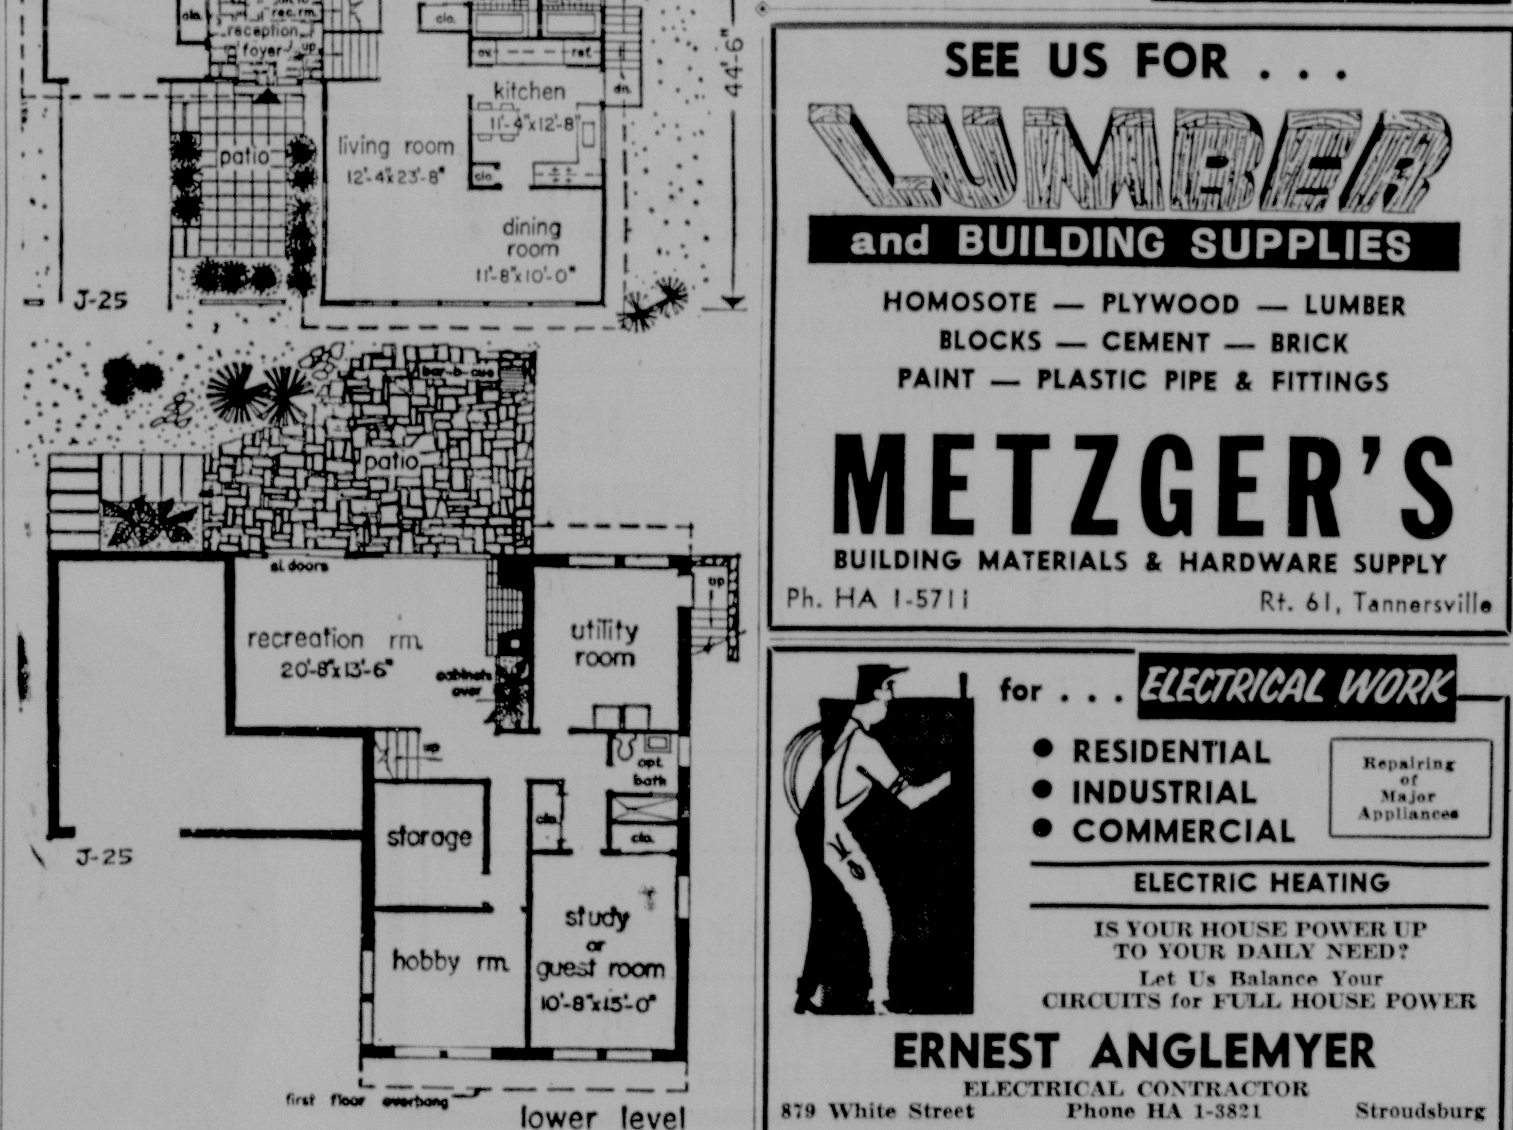

Additional Details — From the foyer, a half flight of stairs leads to the main level which is divided almost perfectly in two between living and sleeping areas.

It would be hard to find a more efficient living area. The living room-dining room all encompasses the kitchen—itsself a model of efficiency and large enough for a breakfast table. The formal area is wide open, with its feeling of spaciousness enhanced by a wall of windows on the front of the house and double windows overlooking the front patio.

In the sleeping wing, both bedrooms have ample closet space in addition to two linen closets, one of them exceptionally large and placed ideally right outside the main bathroom door.

The bath adjoining the master bedroom is a full one, back to back with the main bath for plumbing economy. The main bath, incidentally, has twin lavatories in a vanity stretching from wall to wall.

Downstairs, the recreation room is the obvious eye-catcher with its large stone fireplace and sliding glass doors leading to the rear patio. The room

FLOOR PLANS — Total area of enclosing shell of this house is 1,649 square feet which includes 307 square foot garage. Overall dimensions are 49 feet by 44 feet 6 inches, which means it would fit nicely on a 65 foot by 100 foot lot. Two-bedroom attic expansion is optional feature.

CONDENSER ON WAY — A Patterson-Kelley heat exchanger is on its way to brewery in Allentown to help solve a cooling problem.

Eastburg Company Helps Brewery Solve Problem

THE Patterson-Kelley Co., Inc. of East Stroudsburg has helped the Neuweller Brewing Corporation solve a cooling problem with this specially designed and built heat exchanger, shown being delivered via an upper story window at the Allentown brewery.

Adventists' Bible School On Monday

THE VACATION Bible School for all children between the ages of 4 and 14 will open Monday morning at 9 a.m. at the Seventh-day Adventist Elementary School on West Main St., Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Charles Loney, the director, said there will be no charge or donation cost, and all children who meet the age requirements are welcome.

She also announced that the school will conclude on Thursday, June 28, when Mayor Joseph Small will present the children with their certificates of achievement at exercises to be held at 7:30.

ler's modernization and expansion program. Replacing outdated film type condensers, the compact Patterson-Kelley heat exchanger provides 25 percent more cooling capacity with a considerable saving in floor space and also reduces the amount of water required for cooling.

The new heat exchanger is part of Neuweller's 275 ton capacity refrigeration system which is used to air condition the plant, cool the wort (from which beer is made), and the final products — beer, ale, porter, and stout for which Neuweller is famous.

DAR Criticized By Own Chapter

HARRISBURG (AP)—The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has been criticized by one of its own chapters as static in thought, divisive and a carping critic of the federal government.

The DAR Chapter of Cumberland County expressed these sentiments recently in a letter to Mrs. Robert V. H. Duncan, national DAR president in Washington, it was disclosed Thursday.

The chapter said it remains loyal to the women's organization and has no intention of withdrawing, but it called for policy revisions at the national level.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The Poconos get their share of publicity in the national press, but I suppose this is the first time we've rated it as the home of one of the "ten most-wanted criminals." Locally, of course, the Maps Mystery has remained a matter of speculation in every bridge club, revived with every returning Florida winter-refugee.

Some people still stoutly maintain Eddie's innocence, contending that he himself was a victim of foul play, that his body will be found sometime by some casual hunters. Others contend that the fact that his voice was definitely recognized in the telephone calls made days after the murder refutes that contention.

To me, one of the most fascinating facets of the mystery is how The Daily Record happened to have the photograph which is now being so widely circulated in postoffices throughout the country.

It was taken during a Summer Outdoor Art Show around the Court House Square. Eddie Maps, it seems, had small respect either for the earnest local artist exhibiting or for the art appreciation of the local yokels who liked their work.

With tongue in cheek, he discarded his usual garb which had earned him the nickname "Nature Boy," got dressed up like one of the more conservative business men, took an empty picture frame, propped it up against a Penn-Stroud laurel planting, daubed some paint on the leaves, and then sat there, savoring the reactions.

Which, you'll have to admit, was probably very amusing, since modern art has baffled a lot of people so thoroughly that they are willing to take almost anything seriously.

However, Rod MacLeod knows a spoof when he sees it, generally, and recognizing a good picture, took one, duly reporting it as such when he turned it in. However, the caption came out deadly serious, and according to his friends infuriated Maps.

There's nothing more exasperating to any practical joker than to have a joke on which he's expended a lot of time and effort with nobody recognizing it as a joke, and the proposed victim, all unaware, getting the last laugh.

Not that there's much to laugh about in the whole sorry tragedy, but it does make an ironical footnote.

The Baby's Named!

THE DAILY RECORD congratulates the parents and introduces to its readers the following new babies:

The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of rose beige lace in a sheath style with matching accessories and a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids. A reception for 140 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents with a buffet, before the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mass.

For traveling the bride wore a brown and white dress with matching jacket and white and apricot accessories.

They are now making their home at 762 Bryant St., Stroudsburg. The bride, a 1958 graduate of Stroudsburg High School, attended Churchman's Business College and is working in the office of Monitor-Oil-Jack Co.

A good cook we know always has a little suit added to the lean beef that is ground for hamburgers; the fat is ground right along with the meat.

A good cook we know always has a little suit added to the lean beef that is ground for hamburgers; the fat is ground right along with the meat.

Grants-In-Aid Awarded By AAUW To Local Grads

Two Monroe County girls graduating from high school this month have just been notified that they have been awarded grants-in-aid given by the Stroudsburg Branch of the American Association of University Women.

They are Sandra Raub Bell, Strout Union High School and Jeanette Heiney, Pleasant Valley Joint High School.

The Stroudsburg AAUW gives one or more grants to girls from the four county high schools in regular rotation. The awards of $100 each are given to girls who have been accepted by a four-year college granting a B. A. or B. S. degree.

Sandra Bell was a winner in the Monroe County Science Fair, ranked in the highest tenth of her class, won the "Brotherhood" award, and was a member of the Quill and Scroll, the honorary society for journalists. Her extracurricular activities have included chorus, choir, band, four years service on the Student Council, newspaper staff, yearbook art committee, Junior and Senior play committees, and Girl Scouts.

Jeanette Heiney was salutatorian of her class, won the Exchange Club Award, was a member of the National Honor Society, and also won the DAR award. Among her extra-curricular activities were newspaper editor, a member of the Yearbook staff, a cheerleader, a cast member in the senior play, and also treasurer of the Luther League.

AAUW's primary concern for education is carried out by assisting local young women entering college and also by contributing to its national Fellowship program for women doing advanced research both in this country and abroad.

Its sole fund-raising project for these purposes in the Book Fair, an outdoor sale of used books to be held this year on the porch of the Penn-Stroud Hotel, July 11-14.

Interested persons are invited to donate any used books or magazines.

Dear Abby

Accept It, Mom!

DEAR ABBY: Last night our 19-year-old daughter called us from over the state line and told us she was married. It is okay for a girl her age to be married in that state, but not this one. She and the 20-year-old boy have gone together a year. They are both in college and my husband and I are ready to break their necks. We don't know what to do. She said she was married in the courthouse and we want her married in church. Is it too late for that now? Please advise us.

MIDNIGHT LETTER: DEAR MIDNIGHT LETTER: When your daughter comes home, tell her and her husband that you would like them to be remarried in a religious ceremony. Then speak with your clergyman and he will guide you.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a young man and plan to marry him soon. Recently he told me that he is in the habit of sleeping in his underwear, and intends to do so after we are married. (He picked up this habit in the Army.) The thought is repulsive to me. Is there any way I can get him to break this habit without making a big deal out of it? BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR BRIDE: Tell him you intend to sleep in yours!

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who likes his night out once a week. I usually go out with my father and we throw darts. My wife started hollering for a night out once a week, too, so I said, "Okay, so go ahead." She goes out with her girl friends and they stop into a bar for a drink and then see a movie. I don't like her in bars without me and told her so. But she says there is no harm in it. I trust her, but do you think I am trusting her too much? We have been married 10 years and have 3 children. JOSE

DEAR JOSE: A married woman should not "stop into a bar" with other girls. Compromise. Tell her, "Movies, st-bars, no!"

DEAR ABBY: You were right the first time. In Napoli, Italy they eat pizza with a knife and fork. I saw it myself and have the pictures to prove it.

ANTHONY ROCCO

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Palmer Shoots 71

Littler Leads Open With 69

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—A spectacular eagle and three snaking 30-foot birdie putts sent defending champion Gene Littler into the first round lead of the National Open Golf Championship with a 2-under-par 69 Thursday.

Arnold Palmer, the strong favorite, rallied from the brink of disaster to stay in the thick of the fight—two shots back.

Littler, stylist from San Diego, Calif., posted his superb round shortly after noon over the testing, 6,894-yard Oakmont Country Club course and then watched his challengers fire and fall back on the expiring finishing holes.

Tied for second place at 70 were Bob Ross, the paunchy pro with the baseball grip, whose 10-foot putt to tie rammed the back of the cup and bounced out, and Bobby Nichols, a Midland, Tex., youngster, whose career almost was snuffed out in an automobile accident 10 years ago.

Palmer, playing scattershot golf but reeling off a string of five straight 3s when it appeared he might blow himself out of the tournament, was tied at even par 71 with three other touring pros and two youngsters who are working at club jobs.

They were Gary Player of South Africa, Billy Maxwell, Frank Boynton, J. C. Goswie and Bob Schoener.

Goswie is a colorful hillybilly golfer from Knoxville, Tenn., who left the tour to take a club job in Largo, Fla. Schoener works as an assistant to his professional father in Bethlehem, Pa.

Player, the little man in black from Johannesburg whose duels with Palmer have made dramatic Masters history, came to the final hole needing to sink a 15-foot putt to tie Littler for the lead.

He hit his first putt weakly, leaving the ball 2½ feet short, and then jabbed the ball wide of the cup for a bogey 5.

This was the small handful of players in the star-studded field of 150 able to equal or better Oakmont's par in a long, dreary day of struggling from sun-up to sun-down.

Jack Nicklaus, the rookie pro who ranks as one of the leading favorites, started brilliantly with three straight birdies, then took a double bogey 7 at the ninth hole. He finished at 72, tied with a pair of his former amateur companions, Gene Francis of East William, N.Y., and John Guenther of Reading, Pa., and Canada's Stan Leonard.

Cincinnati Slaps Down Giants, 8-0

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank Robinson and Joey Jay teamed up Thursday night to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-0 shutout victory over the San Francisco Giants.

While Jay limited the Giants to three scattered hits, Robinson drove in four of the Reds' runs—three of them with his eighth homer. Jay got himself two hits and one run batted in.

The Reds got right down to business in the first. Vada Pinson doubled and scored on Robinson's single off Don Larsen, who just taken over after starter Billy Pierce (8-2) was spiked on an out.

Pierce was spiked as he covered first on a ground ball hit back of first. He was taken to Christ Hospital where 12 stitches were required to close the wound. Just behind the right ankle. He was expected to be lost for 12 days.

The Reds really got to Larsen in the third. Jay led off with a single. Larsen walked Don Blasingame and Robinson homered. Then Larsen walked two more batters and Bob Bolin took over. San Francisco 000 000-0 3 0 Cincinnati 103 100 038-10 1

Tribe Toppled By Senators, 4-3

WASHINGTON (AP)—Danny O'Connell's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the eighth inning drove in the winning run for the Washington Senators Thursday night as they won a wild 4-3 decision from the Cleveland Indians.

Despite the comparatively low scoring it took 3 hours and 5 minutes to complete as the two managers used 35 players, including eight pitchers.

Marty Kutyna was the winner with help in the ninth from Pete Burnside. The loser was Gary Bell.

Jim Piersall opened the eighth with a double and Ken Retzer singled to center, Piersall holding third. Pinch hitter Gene Woodling walked, loading the bases.

Jim King batted for Kutyna and forced Piersall at home and Jim jumped up and had a jawing match with John Romano of the Indians.

About half the players from both dugouts converged on home plate but the umpires quickly dispersed them.

O'Connell then singled to right, scoring Bob Johnson, who was running for Retzer. Carl Bouldin, running for Woodling, was out trying to score.

Milwaukee Zips By Los Angeles, 7-1

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves scored five runs in the first inning and breezed to a 7-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday behind the sixth pitching of right-hander Bob Shaw.

Shaw struck out five and walked only one in boosting his season's record to 8-2 and lowering his earned run average to 1.92 in 102 1-3 innings. He has surrendered only five earned runs in his last 37 innings, and tops league starters in the ERA department.

The Braves gave Shaw all the cushion he needed with their first inning, launched when Tommie Aaron reached first on an error, moved to third on a single by Roy McMillan and scored on a sacrifice fly by Eddie Mathews.

Henry Aaron followed with his 12th homer, a towering blast to left against a stiff wind. A walk and a single by Del Crandall drove out Los Angeles starter Stan Williams and brought in Ed Roebuck. A walk, a fielder's choice and an infield hit by Shaw accounted for two more runs.

Pittsburgh (AP)—Third baseman Don Hoak's three-run fifth inning homer sparked Pittsburgh to a sixth straight victory Thursday as the Pirates pounded the Chicago Cubs, 6-3.

Hoak's homer, his third of the season, and hit No. 1,001 in his NL career, was a blast into the left field bleachers that gave Chicago starter Dick Ellsworth his ninth loss among 13 decisions.

The Pirates, sweeping the series as well as taming the Cubs a seventh time in eight games, teed off with a two-run first.

Roberto Clemente singled across Bill Virdon, and Clemente scored on a wild pitch. The Cubs matched this with Billy Williams' 14th homer in the first and Ron Santo's ninth in the second.

Area Coach Named, Quits

JACK FINELLI was named head football coach of the Bangor Area Joint High School Wednesday night at a meeting of the Bangor Area Joint School committee.

Yesterday he indicated he did not want the job.

Finelli is a former Bangor High School and Moravian College backfield star. He was elected although his father, John Finelli, voted as a member of the committee against his son's election.

When the elder Finelli was asked why he voted as he did, he said, "Jack does not want the job."

Some school board athletic committee members had expressed interest in bringing in someone from outside the area. When Finelli heard this from his father, he indicated he did not want the job.

Bernard Reimer, chairman of the athletic committee, admitted he was one of several who felt that someone with no local ties should get the job.

In the opinion of these people, Reimer said, it is best for the team, the coach, and the public if a man could be brought in from outside. Reimer stated that in the case of the former coach, he had been subjected to "unusual pressures" because he was local.

Finelli also submitted his resignation last night as JV coach and wished to discontinue affiliation with the school athletic program.

Davies Moves Ahead Easily In British Amateur Golf

By TOM OCHULTREE
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOYLAK, England, (AP)—Richard Davies, a power-driving real estate man from Pasadena, Calif., overwhelmed two opponents in a game Thursday and advanced to the quarter-finals as the only American survivor in the British Amateur Golf Championship.

The big Californian moved ahead with ridiculous ease in a wild day of fluctuating fortunes which saw Ireland's Joe Carr, the favorite, eliminated along with Robert Sweeney of Palm Beach, Fla. and Pat Brady of Reidsville, N.C.

Davies disposed of England's

Geoffrey Marks 5 and 3 in the fifth round after handing Peter Flaherty of Ireland a 6 and 4 beating in the fourth.

The only American to make the round of eight of the 30 who started, swung his woods like war clubs. He hit long, straight drives into the howling wind. When driving downwind some of his tee shots sailed well over 300 yards. He chipped in from 40 feet on the 10th hole for a birdie 2 in his match with Marks.

Davies will meet David Palmer, a four Yorkshireman Friday. Palmer, 26, defeated the 50-year-old Sweeney in the fourth round 6 and 4. Sweeney won this title in 1937.

Brady, 26, lost a heartbreaker to John Taylor of England, 2 and

1. The likeable Southerner, who made himself a favorite with the fans, squared his match on the 14th hole when he sank a 7-footer for a birdie 4. Taylor took the 15th with a beautiful iron shot and wrapped up the match on the 17th by getting down a 15-foot putt.

Carr fell before Brian Chapman, former Cambridge University star and British Walker Cup player, 3 and 1. Chapman went out in 33 and Carr did well to struggle to the 17th.

Friday's pairings send Davies against Palmer, Chapman against Taylor, John Powell of Wales against Harry Kirkcaldy of Scotland and Rodney Foster of England against Dr. Colin Bird of Scotland.

Twins Topple LA; Close In On Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Minnesota Twins broke a ninth inning tie on a single by Len Green Thursday and moved to within a whisker of the American League lead by defeating the Los Angeles Angels, 5-4.

Angel left-hander Bob Belinsky made his sixth unsuccessful bid for his seventh victory, and his pitching was almost as wild as his recent night life. Belinsky, fined $250 for staying out until 5 a.m. Wednesday with Angel pitcher Dean Chance, walked eight in five innings, and left the game trailing 3-2.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of my husband, George Robert, who passed away 3 years ago today on June 15, 1959. I must walk the rest of the way alone. God only knows how I miss you. My lonely heartache and often I think of you. For the husband I loved so dear I will never forget. When God called you and You closed your eyes in Death, The blow was hard. The shock severe. And only I, your wife, Can tell the loss of you.
